

The CEO Forum

Copyright: Reissource LLC, 2011 Volume 1, Number 3, Winter 2010-11

Table of Contents

From the Desk of Robert Reiss

Companies in This Issue

The CEO Library

CEOs in the Spring 2011 Issue

The Interviews:

Bill McDermott, Co-CEO, SAP

From street smarts to global intelligence.

"The magic is connecting the executive in the virtual boardroom to the shop floor."

Charlie Lanktree, CEO, Egghand's Best

How to re-invent the ultimate commodity—the egg.

"I tell my Board it's because of the wonderful people we have, but the true reason is we have a better product."

George Halvorson, Chairman & CEO, Kaiser Permanente

An insider's look at America's health care problems

"The current health care business model actually works against fixing all of the problems."

Daniel Lamarre, President & CEO, Cirque du Soleil

Where imagination is the most valuable product and asset.

Everyday at Cirque starts with the sentence, "What is there impossible that I can try to achieve today?"

Lynn Tilton, Founder & CEO, Patriarch Partners

A turn-around investment firm revitalizing the American Dream

“There are about 250,000 jobs we’ve saved. That’s what gets me up each morning.”

Murray Martin, Chairman & CEO, Pitney Bowes

Much, much more than productivity in the mail room.

“Every business can either continue to grow off of somebody else’s ideas or it can create its own future “

Finbarr O’Neill, President, J.D. Power & Associates

Understanding how and why your customers are king.

“It is very difficult once you lose a reputation for quality to regain it.”

Randy Papdellis, CEO, Ocean Spray

A capitalist commune based on community in the great American tradition

“You have to come up with 25 ideas to get one that’s going to be the home run.”

Kendall Powell, Chairman & CEO, General Mills

More than a story about a great American food company

“More than 80% of our employees volunteer and we’re finding new ways to engage with our communities.”

Michael Thaman, Chairman & CEO, Owens Corning

Some easy solutions to the greening of America

“The truth is the technology to solve much of the world’s complex issues already exists “